Personal projects & YouTube video collection

This website is going to display all of my YouTube videos, so that in the future, viewers can simply visit my personal webpage in addition to watching them on YouTube.

OrbitGuy, is the name for my YouTube channel where I post various gaming related videos. I purchased the domain name for this website and am turning it into a large collection of my work, both the good and the videos that didn't make the cut. I have been producing videos since the winter of 2014, and this video will display some of my most recent videos as well as some unseen content from the very start. The website will also include some other personal projects that I think people would enjoy, such as some indie games I have worked on in my spare time.

Personas

Drew the Gamer, likes to play games and watch people play games.

Jack the viewer, like to watch videos, mostly on YouTube.

Sarah the tip seeker. Likes to find information on latest games.
